

Creating the Klezmer Shul Description

The Klezmer Shul is the experimental project of composer/performers Stuart Brotman, Cookie Segelstein, and Joshua Horowitz, members of the group Veretski Pass. Working in the Ashkenazic cantorial and klezmer traditions, they are creating a purely instrumental concert suite based on traditional Jewish religious services. They will talk about the process of conceiving and composing this work, give examples of source music, and play recordings from the group's rehearsal sessions
